The project ALLSTAY 4.0

At the end of 2018, SRH in North Rhine-Westphalia decided to use the existing experience as a starting point for a project with the aim of training foreign skilled workers and integrating them into the German economy and society in the long term due to their strong and successful internationalization strategy. Since 2017, the university of applied sciences has been able to get nearly 150 students from abroad to study in Hamm. They all received assistance regarding entry requirements and modalities and in the search for accommodation to make sure they have a great experience in Hamm. A success with model character and system.

Our Aim: Social integration and participation as well as benefits for the economy by generating highly qualified specialists.

ALLSTAY is an innovative four-stage and social integration model that aims to ensure that international students not only graduate from SRH, but also work and live permanently as professionals in Germany. The project name stands for Arrive, Learn, Live, STAY.

— Arrive

We get in touch with our students and support them in matters of entry-regulations and/or finding accommodations.

— Learn

Our students start studying promising courses accompanied by lessons in intercultural habits in Germany.

— Live

We help our students to learn the German language, to participate in social life and in finding friends as well as bonding with people outside the university campus.

— Stay

Big events and meetings with our students and business partners from the region will give our students the opportunity to take this as a useful stepping stone for a successful start in business and life in Germany.

Your application at SRH. Fast.easy.comfortable.

The SRH ALLStay App

Which university already has its own app? We do! The SRH ALLStay App has served as the university's internal social media channel since its launch. If you are part of us, i.e. a student at SRH, you too will benefit from this app, which makes your student life easier. Receive all news about the university directly on your smartphone. Analogous to well-known social media channels, you can react to all messages - by liking, commenting or sharing them with your friends. You can also register for events, for example, with a simple click in the app. And if a question remains unanswered, you can contact us directly via chat.

Small gifts, but much more

A special highlight of the SRH ALLStay app: The more you interact and actively use the app, the more bonus points you automatically receive. Once collected, these can be converted into attractive rewards. But also special commitment from you can be rewarded with the help of the incentive system by the lecturers via a manual point allocation. points with the help of the incentive system.
